SELF CARE ACTIVITY

GRADE I AND II

Self-care is the necessity to do things that are good for our physical, emotional or psychological well-being.

In essence, it's doing something that helps the body, mind or soul to feel good.

For some, that can mean taking care of the physical health by going on a walk, eating nutritious foods, getting enough sleep or simply making sure to be able to fit in a shower each day. For others, it can mean nurturing the mental health with daily meditation sessions, practicing a hobby or connecting with friends and family.

And, in some cases, it can even mean setting healthy boundaries by giving yourself permission to turn down invitations to certain activities or to stop engaging in a negative relationship.

There's no one right way to practice self-care — it can take on a variety of forms depending on what you like and what you need.

“Self-care is anything that leaves a person feeling enriched or nourished.

As a part of POCSO activity importance of Self Care is emphasized to the students.
